FREE POWER EASY DO IT YOURSELF

Be independent of the electric company. Never worry about a power out. It is a mere 12 volts which can't hurt you. You can set one or more solar panels inside in a window or outside.

Cost $99 and up. Add a power station (the black and yellow thing) which has a battery in a portable case with a charge controller and inverter and ports all built in. Earth gets thousands of times the energy we need every day free from the sun. If we put solar panels on roofs, reservoirs and on some public land we could all have free electricity from the sun, and basic income for all, and could power an efficient safe, weather proof subway with fast safe driverless pods to go to most cities eliminating airport and traffic hassles and done by big machines and all paid for by the free electricity.

The World has a Serious Language Problem that we don't notice until we are in another country away from tourist areas. Then one discovers that around 90% of most humans don't understand English well. The over 7,600 languages used are for the most part mutually un-understandable by anyone not knowing them.

There is an easy solution learnable in 5 minutes a day for FREE, which is an auxiliary International Vocabulary of which you already know 2,000 words which can be used between any languages to provide full understanding in 1/10 the time of learning English with all of its thousands of irregularities /grammar exceptions and ambiguities because this is much quicker and less costly than having business people learn English. Visit easiestlanguage.info esperanto.net

I wonder when the media will report that while Hostess was trying to cut Bakers' pay by 8% and benefits by 32%, their CEO gave himself a 300% raise.

Nine Hostess executives received 60% to over 100% raises, while filing for their second bankruptcy.

Meanwhile, they stopped paying into the employees' pension, owing them over $160,000,000.

But, yes... let's blame the 18,000 workers making less than $20 an hour for the fact that Hostess had to close their doors.

$7.6 million

The CEO of Goldman Sachs is telling the American people to lower their expectations for benefits from Social Security, Medicare and Medicaid so that he and his wealthy friends can keep their tax breaks. Just think about the arrogance of these guys on Wall Street who were bailed out by the middle class of this country when their greed nearly destroyed the international financial system and now they lecture the American people about the need to cut programs for working families who are struggling because of the recession they caused. Maybe the CEOs on Wall Street should lower their expectations before working folks lower theirs.

There is more slavery now in the world now than ever before. In 2020 approximately 40 million people, of whom 26 percent were children, were enslaved throughout the world despite it being illegal. Add to that millions hidden in Islamic countries where despite denials slavery is legal in Islam as it is in their unchangeable law. In US cities human trafficking is happening big time. Child brides force girls into slavery and deprive them of an education around the world. Children are also forced to be soldiers in wars. In Africa now.
