

At least five stones here

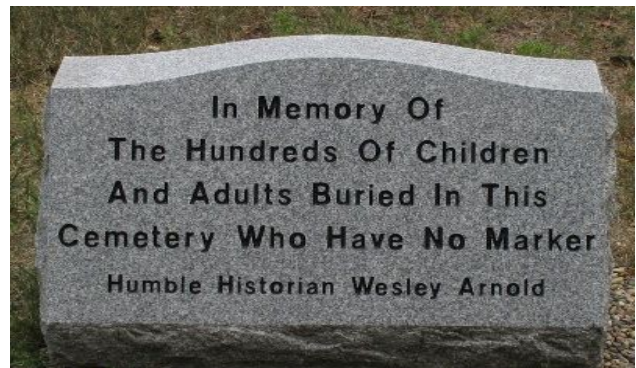

Showing stones at right side

Young Ellen E d age 23 in 1855

There are hundreds of unmarked graves of stillborn day old babies and young children in this and other early cemeteries. In many there are more child graves than adult graves. The sister cemetery with good records shows between 1 ½ and two times as many children buried as adults before 1917. Many children suffered terrible deaths by miserable diseases such as Diphtheria, Whooping Cough, Cholera, Scarlet Fever, Influenza, Typhoid Fever, Inflammation of Bowels, etc. Many children did not survive to age of 21. There were no cures or medicines for these diseases then. The so called doctors had little good medical knowledge. A memorial was anonymously donated without cost to the city to honor these children and our many pioneers who also have unmarked graves. A historian was quoted "hundreds of children and adults." This was stolen by grave robbers.

Zorn Christian 1zor3

Zorn Sophia 1zor4

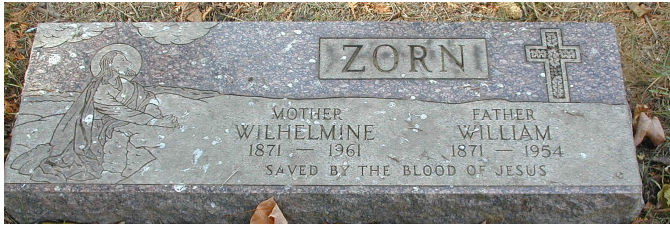

Zoellner Carl 1sch9

To be identified

Zorn view Herman 1zor1

Zorn Wilhelmine Wm 2mei12

